The legacy goes on

Indore Residency Club carries the same legacy of royalty today. Set upon a 20 acre plot, the club is still alive with activities and is the meeting hub for the renowned people of the city. Today when Indore has witnessed growth and has turned into a concrete jungle, IRC still maintains natural surroundings and is perched in the serenity of Mother Nature. It has majestic lawns that once hosted regal dinners for dignitaries like the Prime Minister of India. Now, for a select few, it is a platform for social and cultural interaction with an aura of soothing effect.

A photograph of the entrance to the Indore Residency Club. The entrance is a large, arched gateway made of reddish-brown brick with white decorative moldings. Above the arch is a black sign with the text "Indore Residency Club" in white serif font. The archway leads into a lush green park with many trees and a paved path. To the right of the arch, there is a small window in the brick wall and a metal gate. The overall scene is bright and sunny.
